The Greenhouse Effect and Nature Reserves

Global warming would diminish biological diversity by causing extinctions among reserve species

Robert L. Peters and Joan D. S. Darling

1985

As I did stand my watch upon the hill,
I look'd toward Birnam, and anon, methought,
The wood began to move.

Macbeth, Act 5, Scene 5

Current human development and population trends suggest to all but the very optimistic

Conservation plans of climatic effects as soon as it becomes available search Council 1983, Schneider and Londer 1984).

In this paper we will identify problems caused by climate change that affect biological communities, examine the particular difficulties faced by species in biological reserves, and suggest management options. Although we recognize that dealing with short-term extinction threats alone will strain the resources of conservation-
